

HungryBytes Company Statement

WHO ARE WE?

We are a team of software engineers, providing high-quality software solutions to businesses of all sizes. To keep it short, on-point, and without boring clichés, we have three main pillars to pin-point in regard to our organizational culture: tailored software to customer needs, commitment, and a hire-slow & fire-fast mentality.

Tailored software to customer needs - Our co-founders have been part of their careers in multinational companies, with slowly moving, tardy, and cumbersome processes, which most often result in over-drafting the customer's balance sheet with invoices. Before we onboard new customers and agree on a specific timeline and product requirements, we need to know your business. We do not say that you do not know your business, but we are saying that we know our software expertise. Thus, there might be better and more effective ways to build software solutions for your needs, and we help you find just that.

Commitment - We are committed to all of our projects as our portfolio is our business card. That's why we always strive to deliver the best output, as the best marketing strategy that we can best make use of is the word of mouth.

Hire-slow & fire-fast - Some may not find this relevant, or many may wonder why would we add this to our sales pitch. Well, according to our organizational culture, this is essential, and it means that we have built our team over time, since 2018, only with individuals matching our software talents, to make sure that they keep up with our pace. We heard more than one should hear during interviews, that people are looking for a challenge in their new job, but often enough that is complete and utter applesauce when faced with facts. Thus, our employees go through a trial period for testing their skills.

WHAT DO WE DO?

Simply put, we build software solutions, for Web2 and Web3. We build serverless or server full backends architectures, frontend architectures vary from mono repo to micro frontends, all built and tailored depending on your company's needs. Throughout our portfolio, among others, we have built software so far for World Health Organization, Igentify, Levi9, Feel IT Services, Grapefruit, and SeedOn, our internal Web3 product cooked all in-house.

WHAT TO EXPECT?

We provide professionalism, commitment, and business process review to automate with software solutions according to your company's needs, a young culture with up-to-date expertise and industry standards knowledge. But that's enough about us, how about your business? Let's get in touch and further discuss what are your future plans to expand your digital solutions inventory.

Almost forgot. Soon enough we'll have our organization attributed with the ISO 27001 security certificate for information management.

CONTACT DETAILS

Website: <https://hungrybytes.co>

Email: office@hungrybytes.co

Phone: +40 748 355 835

Telegram: @ccminea